Last week in Year 1:

Last week in Year 1 we had some exciting visitors. We found some friendly and cuddly dragons hidden in the classroom and then outside we discovered some dragon eggs! We have used these discoveries to have a dragon themed week in our classrooms. We have designed our own dragons and independently written about them, created our own dragon egg designs and have been busy making some dragon food!

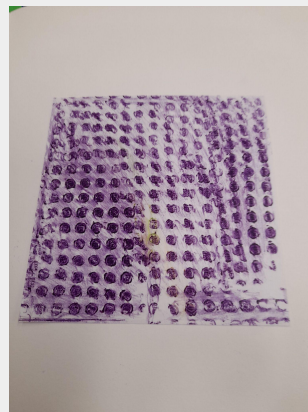

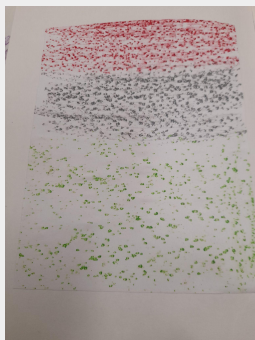

Last week in Year 3:

In Art, we have been exploring the styles of different artists and using these to develop our own sketching skills. Last week, we focused on Quentin Blake, known for illustrating lots of story books, including those by Roald Dahl. Starting with basic shapes and gradually building up to the full drawing, we recreated his drawing of Fantastic Mr Fox, inspired by our class reading book.

Last week in Year 2:

Year 2 have been exploring textures of objects both inside the classroom and outside. They used wax crayons to make rubbings as they talked about the different surfaces.
